Data Protection and Privacy Statement

General statement

Amarin respects your privacy and values the relationship we have with you. Your visits to our websites are subject to this Privacy policy. This Privacy policy describes the types of information we collect, how we may use that information, and with whom we may share it. This policy also describes the measures we take to protect the security of this information as well as how you may reach us to update your contact information, remove your name from our mailing list or ask us any questions.

While you can browse the websites without providing personally identifiable information ("PII") you may choose to voluntarily provide us with PII. So for example, each time you visit one of our websites, two general levels of information about your visit can be retained. The first level comprises statistical and other analytical information collected on an aggregate and non-individual specific basis of all browsers who visit the site. The second is information which is personal or particular to a specific visitor who knowingly chooses to provide that information.

First level data: The first level of data collected by us, the statistical and analytical information, provides general and not individually specific information about the number of people who visit the website; the number of people who return to this site; the pages that they visit; where they were before they came to this site and the page in the site at which they exited. This information helps us monitor traffic on our websites so that we can manage the site's capacity and efficiency. It also helps us to understand which parts of the site are most popular and generally to assess user behavior and characteristics in order to measure interest in and use of the various areas of the site.

Within this first level of data are cookies, web beacons, web server logs and IP addresses. A "cookie" is a small data file transferred by a website to your computer's hard drive. Cookies also enable web server logs to track detailed information about how you are navigating through our websites. Cookies are typically classified as either "session" cookies or "permanent" cookies.

- "Session" cookies do not stay on your computer after you leave a website or close your browser. The aggregate information collected permits us to analyze traffic patterns on our sites. This can enable us over time to provide a better experience on our sites by improving content or personalization and making our sites easier to use.
- "Permanent" cookies are those that remain on your computer. They are used to facilitate personalization and registration services. "Permanent" cookies can be manually removed by the user.

Most browsers automatically accept cookies by default, but you can usually refuse all cookies, selectively accept certain cookies or be notified when a cookie is being sent to your browser by adjusting the preferences in your browser. If you turn off cookies, there may be some features of our sites that will not be available to you and some Web pages may not display properly.

Web beacon is an electronic image, called a single-pixel (1x1) or clear GIF. Web beacons can recognize certain types of information on a visitor's computer, such as a visitor's cookie number, time and date of a page view, and a description of the page where the Web beacon is placed. You may render some Web beacons unusable by rejecting their associated cookies.

Your computer is assigned an IP address that uniquely identifies your device and distinguishes it from other computers on the Internet. The IP addresses allow computers and servers to recognize and communicate with each other. We collect IP addresses in order to conduct system administration. We report this information in the aggregate to our affiliates, business partners and vendors whereby they can then conduct site analysis and review website performance.

Personally Identifiable Information (“PII”): The second level of data collected by us, is personal patient information, such as through the “Register Here” or “Contact Us” pages or any other area where you may sign up for information, request a service or benefit, send e-mails, provide feedback, etc. By choosing to participate in any part of the website where you provide us affirmatively with any type of PII, you are granting Amarin the right to use the information relating to, or provided by, you for its purposes. This information you voluntarily provide will be used by Amarin for:

- i. the purposes for which it was provided by you;
- ii. verification purposes and statistical analysis; and
- iii. marketing and administration purposes.

If you would prefer that we not collect any PII from you, please do not provide us with any, since if you do provide it we will consider that you have granted us the right to use it. Also, if you wish to prevent cookies from tracking you anonymously as you navigate our sites, you can reset your browser to refuse all cookies or to indicate when a cookie is being sent to your computer. Apart from information you voluntarily give to us (for example, by emailing us, or registering with us), our websites do not automatically collect PII. Any information you provide via our websites (or associated phone call-in services) in this way is for Amarin-dedicated use, shared internally and with those vendors that have a need to know. These third party vendors may be provided with access to PII and other information to perform their functions but may not use or disclose the information other than on our behalf and in accordance with this policy. Amarin demands that all uses be in line with the purpose for which you provided it. Note that we may disclose PII in connection with the sale, assignment or other transfer of the business of the site to which the data relates as well as to comply with any applicable law, regulation, legal process or government request without advance notice to you. In addition, we may disclose information that we believe in our sole opinion is necessary or appropriate to prevent physical harm, financial loss or needed in connection with stopping or preventing illegal or unethical behavior.

If you choose to submit PII, you have the right to see and correct your data at any time by accessing the application. Certain sites may ask for your permission for certain uses of your information and you can agree to or decline those uses. If you opt-in for particular services or communications, such as an e-newsletter, you will be able to unsubscribe at any time by following the instructions included in each communication. If you decide to unsubscribe from a service or communication, we will work to remove your information promptly, although we may require additional information before we can process your request.

As described above, if you wish to prevent cookies from tracking you anonymously as you navigate our sites, you can reset your browser to refuse all cookies or to indicate when a cookie is being sent.
